Christians Dedicate New Bible School

Connellsville, Glenn Carpenter, acting pastor of the Christian Church, at Vandeventer, M. M. Cochran of Uniontown, and Robert Lattimer of Pittsburgh. Rev. Warren and Rev. Cloyd Goodnight presided at communion, with J. L. Kurtz and John L. Gans acting as elders and J. Melvin Gray, W. D. Coblentz, Peter R. Welmer and W. H. Berger as deacons.

The choir sang an anthem, "Alleluia Fortis" and a trio composed of Miss Margaret Dull, Robert L. Warner and H. E. Mason, "O Love Divine."

At 6:30 o'clock there was a joint meeting of the Christian Endeavor societies.

Rev. Buckner presided in the evening. Features besides the address of Dr. Goodnight were two anthems by the choir.

The subject for the day was under the direction of Robert L. Warner, who had given much of his time in recent weeks to preparation for the dedicatory program.

The construction of the Bible school addition gives the church facilities for the instruction of 500 persons. This is provided through an assembly room on the main floor having a seating capacity of 200. Flanking this room are 12 individual class rooms which with folding doors can be given privacy during the teaching hour and at the assembly period be opened for the closing exercises in which all classes join. The Martha Norton Bible Class room on this floor is similarly equipped. A balcony around the assembly room has 12 rooms fitted in the same manner as those on the main floor. A social room and a kitchenette and the organ room comprise other features on the second floor of the new building.

The old Sunday school room is divided into two stories, the first for the use of the primary class, the second for the men's class. The old church parlor has been refitted as the beginners' room and a new room built above it for the Philathea, or young ladies' class. The stage, closed by folding doors in the proscenium, is utilized by the office of the Bible school superintendent. Above is a room for the Quaker Esther Class of young ladies.

In the basement of the new building there is a gymnasium with a maple floor 60 by 34 feet. A gallery capable of accommodating upwards of 200 is on the north side. Bathrooms are shower bath and a locker room. Adjoining the gallery is the young men's reading room, reached by stairs descending from the main entrance. Another entrance to this floor is provided at the rear of the Baltimore & Ohio Y. M. C. A. The old dining room and kitchen have been renovated and new floors laid. A supplemental kitchen opening into the northwest corner of the dining room has been built. Complete toilet equipment has been provided on each of the three floors. The baptistry of the church was rebuilt and provided with three rotating rooms, one for the pastor, men and women respectively.

The building, erected by the "force method," method, the committee purchasing all materials and employing all workmen. W. W. Kern served as superintendent and Fred W. Gans as assistant superintendent of construction. The building committee in charge included J. Melvin Gray, chairman; John L. Gans, secretary; and J. L. Kurtz, Benton Boyd and Robert B. Schell, Rev. G. W. Buckner and Miss Beulah Gilmore were advisory members and Rev. G. W. Buckner, ex-officio member.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a healthy, non-damaging way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lax, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested food? Take Olive Tablets the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without gripping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c and 50c.

What Are the Symptoms of Eyestrain?

That is a difficult question to answer, as there are so many of them, and they vary so in different cases. And often the evidence of strained eyes may be noticed anywhere in the body and very little in the eyes themselves. But anyone who has headaches, nausea, dizziness, twitching, eye lids, soreness of the eyes, has ample reason to submit to an examination here.

We won't say these annoyances are caused by eyestrain but they MAY BE and often are.

THE RESPONSIBILITY OF "GOOD" CITIZENS.

Doubtless many of the men who have been in attendance at the Sunday football games, or at least not actively engaged in resisting this form of desecration of a day heretofore regarded as sacred in Pennsylvania, would resent the imputation that they are not good citizens. But they cannot get away from the fact that the example and influence of their actions or attitude very definitely place them in that class.

Every time or every where any reputedly good citizen gives countenance or encouragement to a breach or disregard of the law, just as frequently does he or she embolden some other person or persons to act in defiance, not of a single law which may seem to restrict or curb their personal privileges, predilections or desires, but of all law. When the laws respecting the observance of Sunday are flouted, and offenses of that kind are condoned or regarded with indifference, it is but a step to other and more flagrant violations. If and when these conditions arise, the so-called good citizens are responsible to the extent to which they have failed or lacked the courage to stand four-square on the propositions that any encouragement of law-breaking is a peril to the integrity of our government, and that it must be resisted by every possible means and power if law enforcement of any kind is not to become a by-word and an insult.

It is notorious that disobedience of the prohibition laws has become rampant in all sections of the country, and largely because the people who rate themselves as "decent and law-abiding" have manifested little or no determination to have the law enforced. It has followed as certainly as night follows day that the sentiment thus created among persons of easy conscience on law of evasion, by disregard of one law, is tending to a defiance of all law.

This is the plain fact of the situation with respect to Sunday football or any and every other Sunday desecration. And that places a responsibility upon our citizens which they cannot evade even if they are willing to be accounted as in sympathy with the lawless element.

MAKING IT EASIER FOR DISABLED VETERANS.

President Coolidge has made a recommendation with respect to facilitating medical attention being given disabled veterans that is both sensible and wise. The chief executive proposes that veterans of all wars, where in need of medical or surgical treatment, be admitted to federal hospitals whether their disabilities resulted from service in the armed forces of the United States or not. The more fact that they thus served, President Coolidge holds, is sufficient to entitle them to hospitalization. To make it easier for them to secure such care he would relieve veterans of the present requirement of having to prove that their disability originated in their country's service or was aggravated thereby before they can receive care at the hands of the government.

The experience of hundreds of veterans shows how extremely difficult it is to prove a connection between military service and disability, the policy of the Veterans' Bureau apparently being to prevent claims being granted rather than to aid the government in the discharge of the obligations it owes to the veterans.

With thousands of vacant beds in the federal hospitals and with staffs ample to care for many more veterans, it is little short of a shame that men whose health has been seriously impaired in consequence of exposure or injuries incident to their military service, should suffer any lack of attention or be placed under burdensome restrictions, or subject to the whims of medical examiners of mediocre knowledge and limited experience, before they can secure treatment.

President Coolidge's suggestion therefore has the merit of being instantly practical and, if adopted, as it should be, will do much toward giving every sick or disabled veteran the justice that is due him for the sacrifices he has made in behalf of his country.

Trouble with the Coal Industry

Mining Congress Journal.

Why is it that in a search for that trouble in the coal industry in which the public is interested that none of those charged with responsibility dares to put his finger on or point to the real cause. Is it cowardice? The cause is so patent that he would be less than intelligent who failed to see it. Every shortage of coal which the country has ever experienced outside of war times is directly traceable to the one cause. What is that cause?

The concerted action of powerful bodies of men who are able, if their demands are not met, to stop the industrial processes of the nation, a thing which Mr. Woodrow Wilson with all his sympathy for organized labor declared to be intolerable.

A very small minority of men are able through force either threatened or applied to tie up industry and starve or freeze the public into submission. The law of supply and demand is superseded by the law of force and that force wielded by an organization which defends and justifies the Horrill massacre. The coal operator is required to substantially meet the demand of that organization. The coal industry has many troubles of its own, but the troubles which the public feel are directly traceable to that one cause.

GOVERNORS WILL DISCUSS K. K. K. AT CONFERENCE

How to Deal With the "Invisible Empire" Will Be Considered.

UNIFORM LAWS A SUBJECT

By United Press.
WEST BADEN, Ind., Oct. 15.—The governors of about 40 states are expected to gather here on Wednesday, October 17, as the guests of Governor Warren T. McCray, to discuss problems which the state executives believe can best be solved through cooperation. It is the 15th annual governors' conference.

Following the last session on the three-day program on Friday the state heads will leave at once by special train for Washington to confer with President Coolidge, at his request.

Several of the governors will present papers on special problems which confront them in their home states. In addition to the scheduled program, uniform enforcement of the prohibition act and the narcotic drug laws, freight rates on coal and uniformity of legislation will be discussed informally.

The program as announced by Secretary Miles C. Riley of Madison, Wis., is as follows:

Taxation—Governor Morgan, West Virginia.
Executive Clemency and the Parole System—Governor Sweet, Colorado.
Valuation of Railroads and the State's Obligation—Governor Blaine, Wisconsin.
Wheat in the Nation's Business—Governor Nestor, North Dakota.
Water Power Development and Interstate Exchange of Hydro-Electric Power—Governor Pinchot, Pennsylvania.
Agricultural Problems—Governor Parker, Louisiana.

Known as a Topic.
The Ku Klux Klan is almost certain to come up as a topic for discussion also, although it has not been placed upon the program. Methods for dealing with the "Invisible Empire" occupied almost the entire time of the governors at their last conference.

The possibility of establishing a permanent location for the headquarters of the Governors' Conference in Washington is certain to come up again during this meeting. Several of the governors proposed at the 1922 session to establish a "clearing house" in the capital to bring about closer relationship between state and national government. It was proposed at that time to place the present secretary, Miles Riley, at the head of this institution, operating on a budget of $75,000. Although no action was taken in 1922, it is thought probable that this plan will be put under way during the coming conference.

Representatives of the National Commission on Uniform Legislation, composed of experts from every state, will be present at the conference to present the report of the commission on uniform state laws. They will especially advocate adoption, through the legislatures of the various states, of uniform marriage and divorce laws. This subject has been taken up at several previous governors' conferences.

Child Labor Laws.
An attempt to secure uniform child labor laws and the abolishment of prison logging will be put before the state executives.

Expenses of the conference, which has no basis for existence in the Constitution, but is an extra-legal institution growing out of Theodore Roosevelt's first conference of governors on the conservation of forests, are shared by the various states. An assessment of $250 is levied on each and is met by legislative appropriations.

Licensed at Cumberland.
Charles Jordan and Edie May Berner, both of Uniontown, were licensed to wed at Cumberland.

Problems of the Farmer Are Worrying Politicians

By LAWRENCE MARTIN

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Copyrighted, 1923, by United Press)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The American farmer today is the bone and at the same time the hope of all the politicians on Capitol Hill.

Congress this winter will afford the spectacle of every group in Congress trying to convince the farmer that that special group contains his only friends and his hope for future welfare. A great lot of bunk will be peddled to the farmer in this connection.

No matter what is done by the Coolidge Administration before the regular Congressional session meets—whether it be relief at an extra session, increase in the tariff on wheat by Presidential mandate, reduction of freight rates by the Interstate Commerce Commission—the agriculturist and his problem will be right in the front row when Congress gets together.

Congress has been fussing about this farm problem a long time. It revived the War Finance Corporation, passed the Copper credits law, the cooperative marketing law, the packers' control law and some others, all ostensibly in the farmer's behalf, and still the problem is unsolved. The odds are 10,000 to one that it will remain unsolved when Congress meets and also when it adjourns next summer.

Problem Made Political.
The principal reason for this is that Congress will try to solve the problem politically rather than economically. It is exceedingly doubtful that Congress can do more for the farmer than subsidize him in some way or palliate his woes. The farmer's trouble is economic and no amount of legislation can give him markets in Europe.

Another reason for the certainty that Congress will not solve the agricultural question is that the moment some special favor is proposed for the farmer, the livestock raiser, the copper producer, the miner and miller and manufacturer demand similar treatment, and points to his alleged suffering since the war. He has spokesmen in Congress who won't vote for a higher tariff on wheat unless something is done about copper or something else.

Farmers' representatives in Congress have been hopelessly unable in the past to agree on remedies. There is scant indication that they are any more united now.

Muscle Shoals is one element of the farm problem that will show how politics affects Congressional judgments. At Muscle Shoals the possibilities of the production of great quantities of fertilizer that would make American agriculture independent of Chilean nitrates. But because there is a strong belief that Henry Ford wants to climb to the Presidency via Muscle Shoals it is impossible to get a fair consideration in Congress of the Muscle Shoals question. This is quite apart from whether Ford gets it or not. The point is that the whole question has been muddled by politics. A reduction of hundreds of thousands, if not millions, of dollars yearly in the sum paid for fertilizer by the farmers might be accomplished by an intelligent and speedy decision to put Muscle Shoals to work. Maybe it will be settled this time; but if it is probably will leave political bitterness in its wake which will be reflected in and out of Congress for a long time to come.

The Railroad Question.
The farm problem is also complicated by the railroad question, which in itself is one of the major problems. Farmers demand reduction of freight rates on their commodities as a means of giving them a better margin on production. But it is obvious to even the most superficial that reductions such as are demanded—25 per cent, Secretary Wallace advocates—would mean that some railroads would lose so much revenue that they would not be able to break even.

These are the roads that carry farm products almost exclusively, or that depend on them for their profits. What roads like those lost on farm products they would ask permission to make up if possible on other freight, with a consequent increase in rates.

As President Coolidge recently phrased it to a caller: "If they can't make it on wheat they will have to make it on jackknives."

MAN AND HIS WORK.

Oh, man must set him forth to work
And face upon his way
And he must face the cares of life that Little ones must play
And he must do the heavy tasks and Brace the blows of strife
That neither want nor bitterness shall Fall upon his wife.

Oh, it is hard to guide the road and
Hard to bow to fate
And add to it when children small have Heavy loads to bear
And add to it when wives must toil and Weave a web of care
That when the man is not a man, the Home is sadder yet.

Oh, grumble not that you must work
And face the heat of day
Be glad your wife may sleep at home,
Be glad your children play
Be glad the job is yours to do—for
If you fail there ails
The heart which now you whisper at
On those you love most fair.

Oh, when the man is not a man the Wife must bear the load,
"Tis she must take the burden up," 'tis
She must endure the need
The children cease to romp in play,
And pale their faces grow,
And all the hurt, the grief, the sorrow
The ones he loves must know.

Oh, do not grumble at your tasks, nor Fear to face the thing,
Be glad the load is yours to bear and
Yours the ache and pain,
Be glad while you are sojourn pressed
And while the sun is gay
At home your wife looks out and sees
Your children at their play.

Silhouette for Fall Is Wider, Paris Says

The silhouette for autumn, according to the models shown in Paris, is wider than that of the summer, writes a fashion correspondent in the New York Tribune. Very little drapery is used. The line is increased by the use of long, full tunics that extend to within two or three inches of the bottom of the skirt.

Models shown at Philippe et Gaston's show a nice balancing of the flares that are authorized for autumn. Where the full tunic is applied in front there is a cape to the hips in back or the back of the waist is bloused markedly.

The circular all-around tunic is also being shown. Jean Patou is displaying a number of models with simple bodies and flaring skirts. One of these models is made of mauve and green figured silk and has a chiffon yoke in the back of the waist, braided with soutache. The two inches of skirt visible below the tunic is also of chiffon similarly braided.

The waistline shows a tendency to meander all over the silhouette. A waistline that began at the normal line in front and extended to the hips in back was introduced by Cheronit in the spring, and the new models for autumn have this line. Callot uses it on some of her most charming new models, varying it by beginning the line low in front on some models and making it come to normal in back. Some of her gowns have an absolutely normal waistline.

Jean Patou is also showing the sliding waistline on many of his newest models, and he accentuates it on some of them by making the gown very bloused in back and quite close fitting in front.

Madeleine Vionnet exaggerates this waistline on one of her models by the use of a sash that is placed high in front and ties in a large bow at the hip line in back. This exactly reverses the 1890 silhouette, which was prevalent in the spring openings.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

In Foreign Lands

One Mother Says:

My little girls love to sew for dolls and have lately taken an interest in making costumes fashioned after the customs of different nations. I help them by getting prints showing the different costumes, providing them with the necessary material, and getting them stories about the particular nation they are interested in at the time. Through this doll dressmaking they have acquired personal touch in their study of geography.

Your druggist this week has these trial tubes. Go get one and watch the results.

Dainty people—millions of them—now use a new method of teeth cleaning. It brings them whiter, cleaner, safer teeth. It will to you. Go prove this.

All must fight film

All people who want prettier teeth must fight the film. Film is that viscous coat you feel. In old way brushing, much of it clings and stays. Soon it becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Thus cloudy teeth and tooth troubles became almost universal.

Science has now found 4 ways to fight that film. One disintegrates the film, one removes it without harmful scouring.

Many careful tests proved these methods effective. Then a new-type tooth paste was created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Now, the world over, that tooth paste is bringing a new dental era. Careful people of some 50 nations are employing it today.

Multiplying helps

Pepsodent also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids. It multiplies the starch digestant in saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits.

These are Nature's great tooth-protecting agents in the Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film comb which contains harsh grit.

Connellsville High, Winning First Game of Season, Beats Old Rival, Johnstown, 16-13

Cokers Play Best Ball Shown
This Season; Rusnack Makes Feature Play.

TRUMP WINS WITH TOE

Facing one of the heaviest teams which has represented Johnstown in many years, Connellsville High School on Saturday accomplished what most everyone thought was impossible—turned the Johnnies back, 16-13. The spirit which was so evident during the practice throughout the week remained in evidence throughout the game and when the crisis came the boys were equal to it.

Connellsville, for the first time this season, played throughout the game slightly ahead, with the exception of a few closing minutes after Johnstown had tied the score.

Coordination among the players won the game but special credit must be given to Bob Rusnack, a slender youth who had not engaged in a game before this season on account of an injury suffered in a scrimmage practice prior to the opening of the schedule. Trump, a freshman, playing his first football for the school, demonstrated his steadiness by the calm manner in which he executed the drop kick that won the game for Connellsville. The whole team participated in this play, however, by meeting all attempts of the Johnnies to block the kick.

The Cokers wanted to win Saturday and went into the fray with the one idea—they were to be the victors. No reverse dampened their spirit and the dash they displayed was cheering to the Orange and Black followers.

It was the first game won this season and the touch down scored by Joe May one minute and 45 seconds after the game opened was the first score chalked up by the locals this season.

Both Connellsville touchdowns were made in the first quarter and twice afterwards the locals had the ball nearly across, once within a few inches of the goal and again on the line.

In spite of all the forward passes, long and runs and other thrills, the dash of Bob Rusnack following the kick-off after Johnstown had evened the count at 13-13, was the outstanding feature of the game. He nearly had the honor of making a full field run for touchdown. Rusnack was on the 15-yard line when he received the ball. Running with great speed he evaded the first few tacklers and seemed to have been stopped by a trio of Johnnies who leaped at one moment. Rusnack whirled from their grasp, seemed to make the next five yards in one dash and started at a tangent from the right to the left side of the field. Only one man had any chance to stop him. He was large and it seemed certain Rusnack would out-distance the tackler. Bob, however, not being in the best of condition because of his enforced lay-off, and suffering from the effects of a blow received in the stomach when he leaped in front of the ball a few minutes before and blocked Johnstown's attempt at a place kick after the touchdown, was slowing down. He was halted on the 15-yard line, exhausted, after running 70 yards from kick-off.

Approximately two minutes remained to play. Quarterback Wilhelm gave the ball to Jean George on an end run to the right. No ground was gained on the play but the ball was almost directly in front of the goal posts. As the teams lined up it could be seen that Trump was to attempt a drop-kick. "Cap" Boos made a nice pass to Trump, who unmoved by the momentous occasion, calmly stepped forward. Great silence reigned over the field as he swung his toe. Instead of spinning and over and as such kicks usually do, the ball literally sailed. It went between the bars slightly to the right of the center. The score was 16-13 and only approximately a minute to play. After the kickoff the Cokers forced Johnstown to punt and the play ended in the middle of the field with Connellsville in possession of the ball.

The Cokers' second touchdown, also in the first quarter, came when Van Marlela fell on a blocked kick. The ball was on Johnstown's 50-yard line. A forward, Wilhelm to Stillwagon, noted 15 yards. Johnstown was offside on the next play and the ball was on the 10-yard line. On a take plunge Trump went through for eight yards. Wilhelm then hit the line for a touchdown. Trump made a drop-kick, the count then being 14-0.

The first touchdown scored by the locals occurred when May recovered a fumble and ran 55 yards to the goal line. Trump failed on his attempt at a kick that time.

After the kick-off following Connellsville's second touchdown the Johnnies benefited by a 15-yard penalty against the Cokers, and the ball was on Connellsville's 45-yard line.

The visitors hit for 3½ yards and then Krider fumbled a forward. Another forward pass, Von Lunen to Shaffer, noted 27 yards and with the goal only 12 yards away the Johnnies used their heavy line to clear a path for the pluggers. Four plunges and Von Lunen went over for his team's first score. Fleckenstein made the place kick good.

The second Johnstown touchdown had the fans of both teams on edge. Connellsville had just held on the 15-yard line. A high pass resulted in a fumble and with the ball on the five-yard line Trump punted to Von Lunen on the 28-yard line. C. Shaffer then went through for 23 yards and it was Johnstown's ball on Connellsville's five-yard line. A plunge netted three and one-half yards. There was no gain on the next. Johnstown was penalized five yards for offside. On the next play Johnstown suffered the same penalty again. Then on end run netted two and one-half yards. The Cokers were then penalized five yards for offside and it was Johnstown's ball, first down. The ball was on the three-yard line. A plunge netted two yards and then C. Shaffer went over for the touchdown. Rusnack blocked the kick and the score was 13-13. Immediately afterwards Rusnack made his wonderful run which made the victory possible.

Harvard's Long List of Famous Gridiron Stars

Harvard has had a long list of famous gridiron stars, but the most famous of them all is Eddie Mahan, who finished his career in 1915 by taking the Crimson to a 31-0 victory over Yale, the worst defeat the Bulldogs had ever known before or since. Mahan was one of the original "triple-threat" men and one of the best. He began about the time that Haughton started to open up the Crimson play and to run plays from punt formations.

Mahan was one of the powerful type of runners, with a tricky pivoting style. He was a consistent 45-yard punter and a brilliant passer. When as captain of Harvard in 1915 he led the attack on Yale he scored 20 points, 4 touchdowns and 6 goals. He made 14 punts of 43 yards and 5 over 50.

No other individual Crimson player ever was as successful against Yale.

CHILDREN BORN IN BUNCHES

Tuscan Woman Gave Birth to Eleven Sons in Two Years—Her Total Sixty-Two.

The comedian who walked into a London dairy which exhibited the legend in its window, "Families Supplied," and said he would like "a boy and a girl, please," might have been more successful in America, whence comes the news that a wife has presented her husband with eight babies in one day, says London Answers.

In the very same week the information was forthcoming that a young waitress at Durham had given birth to four children, and the announcement was accompanied by the assurance that "all were doing well."

Some years ago a Palermo woman, Rosa Salom, presented her husband with five boys, all well formed, and, according to the doctor, "eating well and crying well." But she was a long way from wrestling the record from the peasant girl Gravata of Tuscany.

Gravata was the twin daughter of a woman, who was one of triplets. The daughter married a man of her own class. She set the seal on the family reputation when she gave her husband a present of six sons and followed the next year with five more!

After this she had four's twice, which were followed by a quartette. Then ensued a procession of ones and twos, and, finally, came four boys all together. This brought the aggregate number of her living children up to 62, and assured her fame in obstetrical annals as "the Gravata case."

Brund's "History of Newcastle" credits a similar feat to the wife of a poor weaver in Scotland, but does not state how many children arrived at one and the same time. Her family, however, numbered 62. Of these 60 boys and 4 girls survived to manhood and womanhood.

Preventable.

Sickness costs the United States $900,000,000 a year in lost wages and the total loss from preventable diseases and deaths is nearly $3,000,000,000, according to the national health council. How much of this could be prevented by better laws to ensure pure water and milk, and abolish slums and overcrowding? How much by shutting out low-grade emigration?

Laughter Caused Death.

The metaphor, "dying of laughter," was translated into real fact in the case of an elderly man in Philadelphia, who was so elated at the delivery of a comic comedy that he was unable to control his laughter and suddenly collapsed, dying in the arms of a woman sitting beside him. Physicians said that the victim's heart had been ruptured.

Citizen's Remarkable Vitality.

A citizen that she raised in 1921 was kept in the dining room of a St. Johns bury (Vt.) woman. Wanting some seeds to start some plants in window boxes recently, she cut the citizen open and found that part of the seeds had sprouted, one of the sprouts being nearly three inches long. The citizen appeared to be in perfect condition.

How Much Proof Is Necessary?

If hundreds of people all told you the same thing would you believe it?

From the beginning it was realized that the idea of the Estate Heatsrola was so revolutionary, the claims for it so startling, and its achievements so astonishing, that any fair-minded person might be justified in doubting a mere statement of what it would do in heating a home. If you doubt it come in and read some of the testimonials which are reproduced in a booklet. The Estate Heatsrola will burn hard or soft coal, slack or lignite.

FARMERS THEIR OWN BOSSES

Government Surveyors Say Four-Fifths Own Their Land and Therefore Are Independent.

Government surveyors report now that eight out of each ten farmers in the United States are their own boss, while the same proportion of mechanics work for somebody else. The argument, of course, is for the advantage of independence the farmer has, and this ought to have great weight in any consideration given the problem.

Out of 10,824,000 individuals engaged at farm work in the United States $240,400 are classified as employers and independent workers. This means that they either own all or part of the plant and machinery employed in producing their output. Not all are land owners, but those who rent own a sufficient proportion of the machinery to give them the sense of proprietorship. It is this quality that gives them independence in action, says the Omaha Bee.

The farmer who owns his lands or his tools is independent because he works for himself, employing his own capital as well as his own labor. While this condition prevails in America the republic is in very slight danger of revolution, for citizens so substantial as these are not given to revolt. They may combine to effect changes, but they do not strike at the foundations of liberty.

Manners of Medieval Times.

In medieval times persons of the same family shared common plates and cups, used fingers instead of forks, licked their plates, wiped their teeth on the tablecloth and scrubbed for the longest period. Books on etiquette issued in the fifteenth century pointed out that these things were not good manners. The art of cooking in the Middle Ages flourished, however, cooks excelling at artistic and rich confectionery. Dancing in medieval times was true to its name. Dancers really moved with altness and agility instead of slowly posturing round the room in the manner of modern dancers. The noble and his family and servants lived and slept in the great hall of the castle, with next to no privacy. A better state of things evolved gradually, more rooms being added and more windows put in, insuring greater seclusion for the lord and his family.

Swallows Obey Whistle.

An expert in bird lore has been making a study of the peculiar actions of several hundreds of chimney swallows that make their home in the tall chimney of a paper mill in Ohio. Conn. He has discovered that at exactly 6 o'clock each morning, when the whistle blows at a mill three miles away the hundreds of swallows rise from the chimney and fly away to their daily hunting grounds just as promptly as the hundreds of human workers answer the whistle. For two months, he says, they have not been absent or tardy. At night the birds return in small groups.

ROPE TO REDEEM THE ILLITERATES

Ten Million Persons in U. S. Who Cannot Read or Write.

SOME SECTIONS VERY BAD

The census takers at the beginning of each decade are supposed to ask every person in the United States this question, "Can you read and write?" Five million men and women in this country, in round numbers, answered in 1920, "I cannot." They were too honest to deny their illiteracy or, in some cases, were no doubt lacking in pride and sensibleness about it, or were led by fear of punishment to divulge what, to many illiterates, is their dark secret. Millions, however, failed to confess and deliberately misled their illiteracy. Some in their ignorance having the conception of Uncle Sam as a middle-aged old man, decided that their illiteracy was none of his business. Others decided themselves into thinking that the screw which they could trace across the paper was writing, although no one else would ever classify it as such.

10,000,000 illiterates in United States. In its study of illiteracy conditions the illiteracy committee of the National Educational association has carefully analyzed the statistics gathered by the federal census bureau and has followed the matter into the states and localities whence these reports were made up. The committee is convinced that the census taken by the federal government in 1920 showing 10,000,000 illiterates, is not a complete and accurate report. If a careful census were taken in which every individual should be put to the test of reading simple paragraphs in the newspaper and writing simple sentences, the number of illiterates in this country, according to the commission, would approximate 10,000,000 and the number of near-illiterates would be equally as large. Twenty million illiterates and near-illiterates in the United States! It does not take a vivid imagination to see the possibilities in this vast illiterate population, or a mathematician to calculate what they might add to the nation if freed.

Confused by Dollar Bill. Some illiterates are grossly ignorant. A woman who learned recently to read and write said, "I didn't know how to read a $2 bill until I was twenty-five years of age." A teacher who taught an illiterate man of thirty exclaimed, "I didn't know such colossal ignorance could exist. I could teach him anything and it would be something that he didn't know. He didn't know how many months there are in the year." An officer in the American army said in my presence in 1918, "I have three men in my company, native born, who cannot count up to four." Some illiterates have knowledge of a sort, or rather a half-knowledge, which could be speedily acquired, completed and adapted to use if connected with the world through education. Dey, the great surgeon and author, who learned to read and write after the age of twenty-nine, is one of the numerous examples of this fact. "Inequality of opportunity was never more strikingly pictured than in the illiteracy figures on record at Washington. They tell the story of youths in one section who enjoy practical opportunities and the tragic story of youths in another who enjoy practically none. There is a state with little more than 1 per cent illiteracy and there is a state with 21.8. There are nine states with little more than 2 per cent of its people illiterate and there are eleven states where 10 per cent of the people are unable to read and write.

Conditions Almost Barbaric. Numerous counties in the United States have a fraction of 1 per cent illiteracy, and on the other hand, there are fifty-six counties that have more than 50 per cent illiteracy. And there are counties in the United States where more than 50 per cent of the people are unable to read and write.

In the most illiterate sections conditions approach the barbaric. Marriage has no sanctity whatever and commerce is carried on through barter and trade, as when America was roamed over by savage Indians. Mortality is rare in densely illiterate regions. An exchange of wives for the week-end is a practice carried on in certain of these localities. Here the currency of the country is an unknown medium of exchange, neither silver, gold nor paper money being in circulation anywhere within their precincts. It is needless to add that where the currency of the country does not circulate none of its progressive ideas will penetrate or its plans for human or national welfare prevail.

Crusade Twelve Years Old. There are some communities where illiterates have no chance for education unless they go to the penitentiary or join the army, but the illiteracy crusade, which started twelve years ago, is gathering momentum and has now reached most of the states. No provision was made originally in any state school system for the education of adults, and no plan existed prior to 1911 for redeeming illiterates. An individual would now and then teach some illiterate to read and write. Chas. Clark used to relate to his fellow congressmen how he taught a man and his two grown daughters after the Civil war. But as a wholesale undertaking the removal of adult illiterates has waited long. It was generally understood that when one grew up illiterate he was to remain so, no matter how bright his intellect might be or how anxious he was to learn. The school age was fixed at from six to twenty, and no one over that age was supposed to enter school. Most of the states are now making some provision for illiterates either through an organized illiteracy campaign, special schools for adults, home teachers or other methods. True, they are limiting this opportunity to foreign-born illiterates in places, leaving the native-born in illiteracy, and in others are confining the opportunity to those under certain ages.

The barrier of age to educational opportunity must crumble just as the barriers of race, sex, class and religion have given way. In some of the southern states it was once forbidden by law to teach a negro to read and write. The fight for equal educational opportunities for women in the United States was not easily won. As illiterates a personage as Benjamin Franklin was not certain that it was worth while to teach them. He wrote in his autobiography: "A question was somehow or other started between Collins and me as to the propriety of educating the female sex in learning and their ability to study. He was of the opinion that it was improper and I took the contrary side, perhaps a little for dispute's sake."

Many Eager to Learn. The situation is distinctly hopeful as regards the ignorance of the illiterates for knowledge and their ability to learn. Even those who are said to be the most unapproachable and to care the least for knowledge, the Indian women on the reservations, could be induced to learn and could be taught the rudiments in a few months. There is no letter in the alphabet or word in the English language as difficult to form as the vowels, which and Latin letters design they do in bud and with six teeth and porcupine quills to adorn the costume of an Indian brave. They are government wards, and an order from "The Great White Father" would put every one of these under instruction. The philosopher, the saint, the hero, the wise, the good, the great man very often has concealed in a plebeian whom proper education might have disintegrated and brought to light," said Addison. One wonders how many geniuses might be found among these twenty million if "disintegrated and brought to light" and set to serving the nation. If there should be one Booker T. Washington, Edison or Lincoln among them, although it cost $20,000,000 to bring him out, it would be worth the price.—Cora Wilson Stewart, chairman illiteracy commission, National Educational association.

POPE HITS MODERN STYLES

Stringent Rules for Women Who Seek Audience at Vatican.

As a result of the recent sensational incident when 160 women, forming a part of a delegation to the pope, were turned back from the Vatican because their dresses were low at the neck and too short, the Vatican has issued a new set of regulations for dress when being received by the pope at the Vatican in Rome, Italy.

Women must wear dresses covering the arms to the wrist and the neck to the chin, says the regulations. The dresses must be made of thick material and not transparent, and be long enough to reach down to the ankles of the wearer. Dresses giving undue prominence to the figure are discouraged. Gloves must not be worn, and only wedding or engagement rings may adorn the fingers of intending visitors to the Vatican, who are now submitted to three examinations, viz., first at the door, second at St. Damiano courtyard, and if they pass these points, their invitation card is crossed with a blue mark. The third examination is made in the papal antechamber, where successful candidates receive a red cross on their cards.

Makeup of any description is strictly forbidden. Hair dye is tolerated provided it is not of the conspicuous peroxide tint.

SERVES 54 YEARS ON JOB

Michigan Man, Engineer, Boasts of Longest Record in U. S.

Few railroad men can boast of a longer service record with one company than Philip B. Sullivan, 62-year-old Michigan engineer on the Pennsylvania division of the North Western road.

He will have completed fifty-four years of railroading on the 21st of this month. Mr. Sullivan had one thrilling experience in his fifty-four years of railroading. It was on Sept. 10, 1871, the day after the great Chicago fire. The engine of the passenger train on which he was breaking ploughed into the Chicago river a few moments after a tug hit the bridge and broke the locks. The rest of the train did not fall.

Six Husbands Share Wife's Estate. Six husbands, all divorced and one missing, are bringing complications into the settlement of the estate of Mrs. Minnie Greenack, who died recently at Chicago. Executors of the estate are hunting the six men, all of whom are said to share of the dead woman's estate.

Against Evil Gases.

The United States bureau of mines, informing the public against the use of masks against obnoxious gases, says that gas masks are the simplest and easiest to wear, but they protect only in comparatively low concentrations of obnoxious gases and should never be used where the air contains less than 16 per cent of oxygen.

A Sufficient Task.

"Do you enjoy playing the new Chinese game?" "I haven't thought of learning the game," replied Mike Oyentema. "I am merely trying to master the vocabulary and the scoring system,"—Washington Star.

YOU don't leave your life in the middle of the road and go to a fence post to read a bill do you? Then don't expect the other fellow to do it. Put an ad in this paper, regardless of the weather, the fellow you want to reach reads your advertisement while seated at his fireside. If he is a prospective buyer you'll have him in your store. One extra buyer often pays the entire expense of the ad, and it's a poor ad that won't sell that buyer. An ad in this paper reaches the people you are after. Bills may be a necessity, but the ad is the thing that does the selling. Don't think of having a special sale without using advertising space in this paper.

Important to Know About Brunswick Tires---They Are Friction-Proofed

Friction is the greatest enemy of tire life, for friction develops heat and heat destroys rubber. Yet, in running friction is constantly created—it cannot be avoided. Tires are friction-heated in gaining road hold, a touch on the brake multiplies it. So naturally, a driver is constantly combatting the friction which is created.

Since friction cannot be avoided, it was left for Brunswick to discover a rubber-compound which would counteract friction-generated heat in tires. They did it! After years of experimenting! And here it is in these Brunswick Tires. Certain elements in their manufacture prevents in a great measure the damage usually done by friction to ordinary tires. Try them at these low prices.

At the Theatres

The Paramount

"BLINKEY," with Hoot Gibson in the stellar role, is being shown today and tomorrow at this theatre. Gibson plays the part of the son of an old officer who through "pull" gets a commission. He is sent, without explanation, to a cavalry camp on the Mexican border, where his tutelage in army duties is irresistibly funny. His "riding lesson" is one of the funniest affairs ever seen on the screen. One marvels at so good a rider as Gibson being able to imitate so perfectly the antics of a beginner. The comedy situations are scattered with real dramatic skill between the thrilling bits that come from the rapid action of the plot. A thread of love interest runs through it, too, and on the whole it is by far the most pretentious picture Gibson has ever appeared in. The story, adapted from Gene Markley's tale of army life, was directed by Edward Sedgwick, himself a former army officer, and also responsible for the handling of the continuity. Esther Ralston plays the principal feminine role, as the daughter of the post commander, and Mathilde Brandage, as the social-climbing mother of the young lieutenant, has a perfect character bit. DeWitt Jennings is a perfect type as the father of the hero of the play, and Eleanor Field is charming as his sister.

The Soisson

"THE CHRISTIAN"—On view today, Tuesday and Wednesday at this theatre, is a photoplay that is worthy to rank among the best that the industry has to show. When Goldwyn decided to make this film version of Sir Hall Caine's great novel, Maurice Tourneur, who has won international fame for his productions, was chosen to direct the picture. Mr. Tourneur has the special ability of so photographing a story that it has great pictorial beauty without any sacrifice of drama or human appeal. "The Christian" is his most ambitious attempt so far. The cast is composed of notable film players each of whom was skillfully selected for his fitness for the role entrusted to him. Richard Dix as John Storm, the Christian Socialist who tries to live as he believes Christ would, if on earth, has been for a year and more one of the most delightful and interesting of the young screen actors, but the present portrayal puts him head and shoulders above most of the leading men and proves him an actor of insight and deepening resources and of great variety. Mae Busch also materially advances her standing as a player by her skillful handling of the difficult role of Glory Quake. Others who do excellent work are Phyllis Hay, Garret Hughes, Mahlon Hamilton, Claude Gillingwater, Cyril Chadwick, Joseph Doffelt, Harry Northrup and Beryl Mercer. If you would see the biggest and best films of the year, do not miss "The Christian." It's at the top of the list.

The Orpheum

"ONE EXCITING NIGHT"—D. W. Griffith's new picture, opened today at this theatre for a three day attraction. The story concerns a half million dollars that bootleggers have let in the house of a young man without his knowledge.

The film asks the reviewer and everyone not to reveal the story of the plot to those who have not seen it. So the story shall not be told further than it is the funniest plot of intrigues, mysterious figures, piercing eyes, stealthy movements, surprises and alarms that has ever been told. Whenever the action becomes so intense the audience is ready to scream, along comes dashes of comedy that are so useful and delicious the cure is almost better than the cause. This comedy introduces Peter Strong in the role of Tommie Washington, a negro such as the screen has not known in the past. Strong is another genius of comedy who wins with his first appearance. The hero is Harry Hull, a struggling star, making his first appearance in pictures. He is dark and active and handsome, with an easy grace and care-free manner that is pleasant. Others in the cast are C. H. Crook or-King, a man who has a face you will never forget and will wish to see again, Morgan Wallace, who will be recalled in "Orphans of the Storm"; Margaret Dale, playing the role of mother, Frank Sheen, the great interpreter of detective roles, Frank Wanderline and Irma Hamilton. Thursday—Friday and Saturday, Charles Ray will be seen in "A Tallor Made Man."

ANIMALS PERISHED IN TAR

Saber-Tooth Tigers, Mastodons, Elephants and Camels Caught in California Asphalt Pit.

Recently I stood looking into the asphalt pits at Rancho La Brea, Cal. I had held in my hand that morning an eight-inch tooth from this pit, the great curved fang of Smilodon, the saber tooth tiger.

The terrible weapon might have been torn from the tiger's jaw only yesterday, so perfectly had the impregnating oil preserved it. This, bladeslike, its inner serrated edge pricked the skin and dug to the finger drawn through its scimitar curve. It was a perfect tooth.

The beast possessing it had perished in his mighty pride. And here with him in the treacherous tar had perished two thousand of his kind. Skeletal parts of two thousand saber-tooth tigers have been taken from this California tar pool at La Brea.

As I stood by the pit I looked about me. Two small ground squirrels watched me from behind a mesquite tree; a forest of derricks rose over against me, pumping oil; a stream of motor cars whizzed past me on the paved road; but in the pool below me the oily ooze bubbled thickly; and below the ooze lay heaped the bituminized skulls of all the years.

Geology here had scrapped her later ages. This was Time's dump, the pondering vat, where into nothingness and night such lighted day is melted, each perfect form of life.

What strange and mighty forms have vanished here! tigers more dread than those of the Amazon or Bengal, mastodons of monstrous size, elephants, camels, tapirs, sloths, horses, wolves, cave bears and bear dogs bigger than the Kodiak bear, birds and reptiles without like or kind among the living—now forever gone except that their buried bones are found, and on these rude and partial frames rough guesses hung for what were once unique and breathing forms—Harper's Magazine.

BUOYS ALL HAVE A MEANING

About Forty Different Types Used to Guide and Warn Ships.

When you are at the seaside stand on the beach and look out to sea. You will, no doubt, notice a number of buoys bobbing up and down in the water. In all there are about 40 different types, and to the ordinary person they all seem to mean the same, but if you get hold of an "old salt" and ask him for their meanings, you will be surprised with the host of interesting information he will give you.

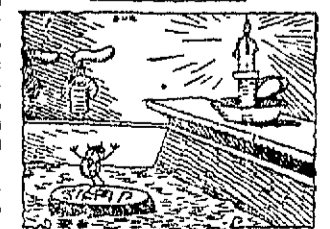

He will tell you that a green-painted buoy marks a wreck. A deep-water channel is often marked by 70 or more buoys.

Perhaps one of the most unanny sounds a person can wish to hear is the rattling telling of a bell buoy on a wild night when the sea is very rough. Stunt on the shore, or at the end of the pier, and you will hear it quite distinctly when the wind drops for a moment.

Then there is the gas bell buoy. Highly compressed gas is stored in the base of the buoy, and is forced up by pipes into a lantern. There are lenses that help to aid brilliance to the light which flashes out its warning day and night until all the gas is used. The usual time of refilling is about a fortnight.

There is also an anchor buoy which looks like a barrel on the water. It is filled with cork, and is anchored to the sandy bed of the sea. This buoy is intended to warn ships not to cast anchor in the vicinity, there being a cable laid near—London Times.

 "Yes, if there's anything left in my pockets."

COLONIAL HOME—SIX ROOMS AND PORCH

Copyright, 1923.—Architects' Small House Service Bureau.

Plan No. 8A18

FEW HOMES of this size contain so generous a living room as this one. In its possibilities for furnishing and decorating. The fireplace is located where it will be the center of interest in the furnishing and decorative scheme. The plaster opening between dining room and living room provides built-in bookcases on either side. To make housework as easy as possible, the kitchen has been planned to include built-in cupboards. A convenient feature appreciated by housewives is the dining alcove in the kitchen.

Second floor contains three good size bedrooms and a sewing room. A large linen closet and clothes closet are provided in the sewing room. The bathroom has a recess tub and towel closet. There is a generous closet space throughout the house. There is a large attic, reached by a stairway from one of the bedrooms.

This house is of frame construction, stucco exterior and shingle roof. The porch, which is indicated at the rear, may be placed at the side of the house if desired. As the house now stands, it can be erected on a 40 foot lot. Outside dimensions are 30 feet in width, 27 feet 8 inches deep. Built complete, ready to live in, including heating, lighting, plumbing, but not wall decorations, this house should range in cost between $7,000 and $8,500. In certain localities, where costs are high, the highest figure quoted would be too low. In other localities, the lowest figure would be more than sufficient. The range of $1,500 is given to cover differences in quality of materials and degree of equipment.

Copyright, 1923.—Architects' Small House Service Bureau—Home Builders' Clinic

The plans for small houses are furnished by the Regional Bureau of the Architects' Small House Service Bureau of the United States, Inc., controlled by the American Institute of Architects, Inc., and the Department of Commerce, United States Government. The estimated cost of construction are based on general averages for the entire country. The United States Bureau maintains an information department to answer home builders' questions. For information regarding the blue prints and specifications, which are supplied at moderate cost, address the home building editor of this paper. Include self-addressed, stamped envelope.

WHAT YOU MAY WANT TO KNOW ABOUT BUILDING

Questions addressed to the paper will be answered by the Architects' Small House Service Bureau of the United States, Inc., controlled by the American Institute of Architects, Inc., and the Department of Commerce, United States Government. Unless addressed, stamped envelope for return.

Q—Can concrete blocks be used above grade? If so how should they be used?

A—Concrete blocks make an excellent superstructure. They can be used for all outside walls above and below grade. They do not, however, look well if the block is formed by imitation of brick. We recommend that the blocks be finished off with a coat of stucco. To avoid sweating, this wall should be insulated, preferably on the inside, by furring.

Q—Many of the recently built small houses are finished inside with enamel. Is this desirable? Do you think it will remain in style?

A—Enamelled wood makes an excellent finish for interior woodwork. It is easily cleaned. When the job is well done it is quite durable. It is one of the excellent ways of finishing woodwork and no doubt it will remain in style.

Q—The house plans we have just obtained call for wooden blinds. Are these necessary to the appearance of the house? Are they expensive?

A—It is surprising how effective blinds are on small houses. They give an air of intimacy and charm which is quite desirable in buildings of this kind. They are not expensive. A small house can usually be equipped with blinds for less than $100. We recommend wherever blinds are used that they be made operating and thus readily useful.

Q—We wish to buy some property in our city. How far back is it necessary to trace the title?

A—The abstract of title should be carried back to the original grant of the land from the government. Make sure that every transaction has been closed and that all claims against the property have been satisfied legally.

Q—Why is it that architects' houses do not have white cornices? It seems to me that a narrow cornice looks cheap and unfinished.

A—A wide cornice used in small house construction often is out of scale with the building. It looks too heavy. Furthermore, it costs more to put on a cornice of this kind and light is cut out of the second story rooms which they ought to have. When you put a heavy cornice on a small house you pay for something that is more or less useless, and you are not improving the appearance of the house.

Q—Please advise me what text book you recommend that would be helpful to a beginner in the study of architecture. I do not want a technical book. I want something popular.

A—There has just been issued by The American Institute of Architects a text book under the heading "The Significance of Fine Arts." This book has been edited by well known architects and famous writers on architectural subjects, including painting and music, to meet a popular demand. We suggest that you write to The American Institute of Architects, the Octagon, Washington, D. C. They will give you further information.

Elks' Tornadoes Win Over Monnessen Independents in Easy Fashion; Stars Play

All-American Lineup Make Tornado Defense Almost Impregnable.

With two all-American selections in the line-up, the Connelville Elks Tornadoes, playing their second game of the season, had an easy time with Monnessen in the second Sunday game of the season yesterday. The score was 41-0.

The play showed a big improvement over the previous week. With Stanley Keck and Webster, Greenburgers, and players of note playing each of the tackles, the line was well-impenetrable.

The outstanding feature was the 50-yard run of "Jack" Elpers for a touchdown after receiving a forward pass. He was on the receiving end of a number of other successful passes.

The Tornado line tore big holes through the Monnessen defense for the runners and many long gains were made. The entire backfield made some nice runs at one time or another. During the final minutes Coach Sneak rushed his second-string men into the fray and gave the others a rest.

There was some talk heard of the coming game between the Tornadoes and the Brownsville Independents. The strength of the Brownsville team may be indicated by the fact that the Pleasant Valley Steelers lost to the river town outfit yesterday by a score of 46-0.

Scottdale High team won, 42-0. The Mill Tornadoes scored the first touch-field and lost the ball. White took a forward pass and ran for a touchdown.

Small kicked for the point after touchdown.

Taking the ball on downs soon after the opening of the second quarter gains. Reynolds finally going over for a touchdown. Small again kicked for the extra point and the score was 14-0. Two more points were added when Small punted over the goal line.

Murphy being thrown holding it for a Small went over on the second play for another score. White drop-kicked for the extra point. As the half ended the score was 23-0.

In the third quarter a forward pass
Small to C. Uley, netted a touchdown.
The kick failed and the score was 29-0. Another fumble by Mount Pleas-football for another score. Small mak-

The score then was 36-0. The third

Yanks Have Edge On Giants; Today May End Series

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Winning over the Giants on both Saturday and Sunday, the New York Yankees, American League champions, nearly have the edge in the World Series and look now like the logical winners of baseball's biggest prize.
On Saturday, getting away to an early lead, the Yankees mated Mc-Graw's twirlers for a flock of six runs in the second frame, three mountain men being used in that inning. Two more tallies were scored later in the game and the four runs brought in by the Giants before the ninth inning had closed were worthless. The game

SMART CHAPEAUX FROM PARIS SHOPS

French millinery designers are showing partiality to the metallic, brocaded and velvet ribbons, for new fall chapeaux. Three exclusive models, shown in this sketch, are a large picture hat of metallic ribbon faced with cense velvet ribbon, a turban of wide novelty fall ribbon, and a small cloche trimmed with metal-edged velvet ribbon.

evened the count so far in the series to two victories and two defeats for each team.

Yesterday "Bullet Joe" Bush
victorious moundman of the Yankees, held the Giants in check while his teammates made the echoes roar with the crash of their bats against the offerings of Bentley, J. Scott, Barnes and Jonnard. Bush allowed three hits, enough for the Giants to score one single run. The final result was 3-1.

Today, the only barrier in the way of ending the World Series with the Yankees as the winner is Art Nehf, McGraw's one ace, who when he is good, is good.

Opinion, however, is that even if Nehf is victorious in his second attempt the odds will all be against McGraw as he will have nothing left with which to meet the Yankees in the final clash.

Bush retched the Giants in rapid order in six of yesterday's nine innings. Only 12 men faced him during the game. Of the three hits, Menzel's triple, followed by Casey Stengel's out brought in the only run for the National Leagueers. Bush walked two, and struck out three. He seemed to grow stronger as the game progressed.
